

The wines we serve are an expression of our passion for the winemaking process & the native grape varieties of Italy, grown in Italy & around the world. They have been carefully selected, mainly from small boutique wineries using sustainable principles in the vineyard & in the winery, & include some lesser known varieties & regions as well as some of the greats. Each bottle has a story to tell about the grape, the winemaker & its origin. Let us share these stories & our passion for these wines with you. Salute!

One Ford Street Cellar – individual pour by Coravin

The most famous Italian wine regions are Piedmont, Tuscany & Veneto, where Barolo, Barbaresco, Brunello & Amarone are made. These wines have a complexity & earthiness that reflects the soil, the unique Italian grape varieties & the craft of the winemaker. Over sixty percent of the wine grown in Italy is red wine. The cool, mountainous northern region of Piedmont produces alluring, austere & complex wines, whereas the sunny, temperate central region of Tuscany yields bold, lusty, full-bodied sensations

Brunello di Montalcino

Montalcino is Tuscany's second most famous wine zone, after Chianti. In terms of quality, however, it is the star. Montalcino is a small, medieval town just outside of the town of Siena. The wine district there is a warm, sunny, hilly area with few extremes in temperature, the ideal conditions for grapes to ripen to their fullest. The cool evenings ensure a high acidity. Brunello di Montalcino is created entirely from Sangiovese grapes. Brunello, "the nice, dark one" in local dialect, is Tuscany's most expensive, rarest, & longest-lived wine. Brunello is subtle with overtones of blackberry, black cherry, chocolate & sweet vanilla.

Barbaresco

Barbaresco is Barolo's close neighbour & stylistic soul mate. Barbaresco, like Barolo, is produced from Nebbiolo grapes, but grown in Barbaresco, Treiso & Neive villages. It tends to be softer & slightly more graceful. Barbaresco, requires aging - a minimum of two years & up to twenty years -to meet its full potential.

Barolo

Amarone della Valpolicella

Amarone is made from air-dried, predominantly Corvina grapes. It is produced in the northern Veneto region near Venice, using the "appassimento" method. This technique involves picking the "ears", or those grapes that protrude at the outside of a cluster & are most exposed to the sun. The result is a bold, full-bodied wine in a style more common to warm growing areas.

Sicilia

Etna Appellation

Nerello Mascalese is a light-bodied red wine that primarily grows on the slopes of Mount Etna in Sicily. Despite its rarity, the wine offers amazing value & a taste profile that's often likened to fine Pinot Noir. Nerello Mascalese hits your mouth with an explosion of red fruit flavours that leads into spice notes of cinnamon & floral dried desert herbs.

The best vineyards are higher up in elevation where the cooling night time temperatures help to maintain the grape's desirable acidity. Also, the wines grown in altitude tend to have slightly thicker skins, which adds to the wine's tannin structure & potential to age.

Sardegna

Cannonau

Known as Grenache in France & Garnacha in Spain, Sardinia's most planted red varietal was considered to have been introduced by the Spaniards in the 15th century but according to most recent study, it might have been present in Sardinia well before Spanish occupation. Cannonau is grown all over the island, with the best examples coming from the area around Nuoro in central Sardinia. Medium to full-bodied in weight, wines have juicy, sweet raspberry & blackberry fruit, with hints of chocolate, warm spice & earthy characters. With soft, fine tannins & low acidity, they can reach quite high levels of alcohol. The style of Cannonau range from medium-bodied & soft to rich, supple & powerfull, & is a great match with pork & game dishes.
